Choose Your Druggist Carefully

A druggist can do more harm or good than most people give him credit for.

There are different qualities in drugs, just as there are in dry goods, and to the outsider all qualities go by the same name.

The difference between pure, high grade drugs, and cheap, inferior drugs of the same name means the difference between getting sick and keeping well.

When a doctor writes a prescription he means best quality. When some druggists fill a prescription they think only of big profits.

Choose your druggist carefully.

HARRY BERNARD.—A short but interesting sketch of the life of Harry Bernard, who died yesterday morning in Tempe, will be found in the Tempe department of this paper. Mr. Bernard was well known in this city.

NO SUNSTROKE THERE.—In a letter received by friends here from a former well known citizen, Mr. A. P. McKern, he says that since he reached Dawson City, which is now his home, the thermometer has gone down as low as sixty-three degrees below zero.

HEADED FOR HOME.—The Tucson Star says: Walter Gregory, a former newspaper man of Phoenix, ex-member of the Rough Riders, and who went to the Philippines with the Fourth U. S. Cavalry, is on his native beach.

He will be mustered out in the fall, but is likely to re-enlist. Walter was in the hospital at the islands, but came out strong and is now weighing 160 pounds.

JOHN HOWLETT DEAD.—John Howlett died at the Phoenix hospital last night of cancer of the liver. A delicate operation for another ailment was performed on him a few days ago, but he had recovered from that. He was one of the early residents of Phoenix and was considerably past seventy years of age. His funeral will take place from Mohr & Esterling's at 6:30 o'clock on Sunday evening.

QUICKSILVER TRUST.—The temperature in these parts for the last two weeks has created a strong suspicion in the minds of local financiers, that J. Pierpont Morgan or someone else has organized a quicksilver trust. In no other way can they account for the mercury being so high, though one old-timer said the reason the thermometer was so high now was not on account of their original cost, but on account of the high freight rate.

MARIPOSA JIM IN JAIL.—Deputy Sheriff Charles Shankard and a Billy Williams returned yesterday morning from the Maricopa reservation, where Mrs. Irving frightened by Maricopa Jim, last Wednesday, accidentally or prematurely discharged a gun and shot her babe. They brought Maricopa Jim back with them. The old reprobate, the cause of the trouble, refuses to talk. It was thought yesterday that the babe would recover.

SOME SERIOUS CHARGES.—J. J. O'Connor is preparing a complaint to be lodged with Commissioner Crenshaw against a saloon keeper in his town, who is charged with selling firewater to a chief of the Pimas, Jose Ga-Lok-Er. The same dealer in wet goods is suspected of having also sold to Chief

Afraid-of-His-Squaw. but the evidence is not quite complete. A charge is pending against another saloon keeper of having supplied the chief of the Alhambra with strong drink.

THE OLD SOB.—Letters from Judge W. H. Stilwell announce that he is now visiting St. Lawrence county, New York, his native land. It is his first visit there for a great many years.

GONE TO TUCSON.—S. R. Fulton, day operator for the Western Union Telegraph company, went to Tucson last night to relieve the night operator there, who is going to take a vacation for a month or so.

DISTURBED THE PEACE.—Homer Weid, an employee of J. W. Dorris, married a few days ago and has settled down on Perry Sears' place near the Indian school, where he and his wife will reside till Mr. Sears and family return from the coast. Last night all the clerks of Mr. Dorris' store, both ladies and gentlemen, disturbed the peace of the newly married couple by calling on them in a body armed with ice cream, cake and other refreshments, and bringing a token of their regard in the shape of a nice rocking chair big enough for two.

A CUTTER RETURNED TO TOWN.—Sheriff Stout returned yesterday morning from Tucson with Pedro Gonzalez, who tried to bisect a countryman by the name of Francisco Costello in the southern part of town less than a week ago. He succeeded only in cutting his hat in two by a kind of a downward stroke. Gonzalez was arraigned before Justice Burnett and his hearing was set for tomorrow. Costello, who has been in custody ever since the incident, was then brought in and fined $5 for a disturbance of the peace in having gotten in the way of the sweep of Gonzalez's knife.

POLICE COURT.—Two girls were arrested by the police Wednesday night on the charge of being street walkers, and were tried and found guilty by the city recorder yesterday. One was sentenced to pay a fine of $10, but was later taken charge of by her mother with the consent of the recorder. Sentence has not been pronounced upon the other girl yet. Their names are withheld for the reason that both are connected with respectable families, and the further reason that both girls are young and not beyond the possibility of reformation if kindly treated.

PAY YOUR POLL TAX.—There is one individual in town that the heat seems to have no effect on, except to make him more lively, and that is the poll tax collector. He is about early in the morning and he keeps moving late in the evening. There is a bacillus in the air here in the summer time that affects all men alike and makes them want to dodge their poll tax, but it is no use. One might just as well pay it at once and have it off his mind. The law requires all persons or companies employing men to pay poll tax for their employees and shares it up to them. A suit was filed in Justice Gray's court yesterday for the collection of poll tax from a certain employer of men.

A GREIVIOUS DISAPPOINTMENT

How Recorder Jobs Fooled the Bench Warmers Yesterday.

Considerable has been said lately regarding like young girls of this town and the number of them whose conduct is not above suspicion. Most of these remarks have been directed to parents in the hope that closer watch would be kept over their daughters, and that in this way they would in greater measure be kept from temptation and from evil companionship.

But the girls are not alone to blame. There is about as tough a class of boys in this town as ever sprouted from homes of respectable parents, and there are no question of individuals of the male sex, even of advancing years, whose virtue is so deeply hidden in their breasts that it can be probed only by the use of a shotgun. A girl who falls under the influence of any of these thugs, whether they be sixteen or sixty years old, is taking desperate chances for her own future.

On Wednesday night two girls about sixteen years old were arrested on the charge of being street walkers. There is no question of their guilt. But they are still young, and whatever may have caused them to err, they would not necessarily be beyond reclamation if they were given encouragement by those whose only occupation and boast now is that they have helped to or can help in dragging them down.

This arrest was made late at night, and neither morning paper made reference to it yesterday, for obvious reasons. Nevertheless every he-thing in town of the character referred to in the beginning of this article knew of it before noon yesterday and in the course of the day they all managed to pass by the city hall and peer into the jail.

Not all of them saw the girls, it is true, but all of them wanted to. They all knew the girls by sight, and most of them had seen them on the street walking in a day or two, and most of them, no doubt, were aware of their questionable conduct. But the fact that they were in jail on charges of that kind immediately made these boys objects of great interest to these human warts. They sat around on the benches more or less all day and occasionally strolled by the jail, only to go and sit down again. When they got tired they would go up and go away for an hour or two, then come back again. Some of them looked like vagrants, some were well dressed and dapper in appearance, with high standing collars, regardless of the temperature, some were young men with glasses in the town whose fate may some day be the same. Some were Sunday school boys, but more were not, some were big, strong men that ought to have been at work or hunting a job. The most despicable wretch in the bunch was the young man (2) who is credited with having first started one of the girls on her downward career. These he-things are not law breakers, and offend public decency only by living in a community and leeching the atmosphere with their disgraceful language and their noxious breath.

When court was called at 4 o'clock the room was well filled with these things to see what? A couple of young girls who were reared in poverty, forced to work for a living, and in doing so exposed to the temptations of wicked boys and criminal hearted men, and, in a strange, slipped and fell. But 2 was an awful disappointment to them when they learned that the girls had been tried at noon and that they had had their advertisement wait for nothing. The police, however, report, and the announcement is made here for the benefit of such of the he-things as may chance to read this, and who are dying with curiosity to see what a poor girl looks like after she is arrested, that these two unfortunate young women have not materially changed in appearance in the last two days.

CHICAGO PUFFED UP AGAIN.

Figuring on a Directory Basis, She Has 2,100,000 Inhabitants.

Chicago, July 18.—There will be more than 615,000 names in the new city directory, which is due to appear July 20, and statisticians vared in population figures say that the big book will show that Chicago has 2,100,000 inhabitants. This will be a 5 per cent gain over 1900—a larger ratio of increase than that of past years. There are 284,000 names in the directory of 1900, indicating a population of 2,000,000. The federal census showed only 1,698,575, but the school count was 2,007, 695, and the directory publishers declare Uncle Sam's men missed many inhabitants.
